

VOGUE

AUSTRALIA

VOGUE

AUSTRALIA

Barcelona's newest rooftop bar is a must-visit this European summer

IT JUST MIGHT BECOME YOUR GO-TO.

11 January 2018

When booking a mid-year European holiday, ensuring your to-do list is packed with plenty of relaxing activities is key. In between the sightseeing, swimming and inevitable lost luggage or stolen passports comes the time to drink cocktails, watch the sun set and generally step back a notch. Now, a brand new rooftop bar, Azimuth, in Barcelona has opened and proves to be the perfect place for a drink.

Situated at the top of Almanac Hotel and overlooking Barcelona's beautiful landscape — including the famous Sagrada Familia — the bar is open to the public and features an extensive cocktail and food list.

Perfect for relaxing by the pool, enjoying the view or soaking in Spanish culture, the rooftop bar is just a little chicer than a Gothic Quarter dive bar (but don't get us wrong, those are great too) and might just make the perfect spot for a European 'gram, complete with a summer spritz or sangria.

